Commercial Fishing, Marine Trade Show Set to Open in Providence

FEA08 The biennial commercial/marine fishing show returns to the Rhode Island Convention Center in Providence

Providence, RI — FEA08, a biennial trade show for the commercial fishing and commercial marine industries will draw thousands of professionals to the Rhode Island Convention Center April 9-10 for two days of seminars, demonstrations, and displays of the most advanced equipment and technology.

The show has been expanded to include all facets of the commercial marine industry on the Atlantic seaboard, including tug & tow, commercial fishing, ferry, police, fire, rescue, harbor pilot, military, fleet and charter operations.

Now in its 30th year, FEA 08 is the largest trade show serving the commercial marine industry on the East Coast. Organizer report that 148 companies will be exhibiting in 25,000 sq. ft. of exhibit space.

A biennial event, the 2006 show included 173 exhibiting companies in over 28,000 net square feet of exhibition space, and drew attendees from 27 states and Puerto Rico, and 17 countries.

FEA is owned and produced by Hugger Event Management. The company also produces SAWLEX, a trade event for forestry equipment buyers.
